
Contributors

Harrison A. Fertig, M.D., F.A.C.C. (retired), is former Chief of Cardiology, Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center, Plainfield, New Jersey; and former Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, Robert Wood Johnson School of Medicine, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Leon M. Lessinger, Ed.D., is an Eminent Scholar in Education Policy and Economic Development and Senior Fellow, Florida Institute of Education, Jacksonville, Florida; former Clinical Professor of Medicine, UCLA Medical Center, Los Angeles, California; former Associate U.S. Commissioner of Education; and former Dean of the College of Education, University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina.

M. Brooke Moran is Director of Patient Advocacy and Government Affairs for the American Foundation for Urologic Diseases (A.F.U.D.), Baltimore, Maryland; editor of the Prostate Cancer Resource Directory; and founding trustee of the National Prostate Cancer Coalition (NPCC).

Henry A. Porterfield is Chairman and CEO of US TOO! International, Inc., Hinsdale, Illinois, a not-for-profit resource organization serving men with prostate cancer and prostate disease.